II. FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

The Court FINDS AND CONCLUDES that:

1. Based on the Declarations of Deputies Childs and Jensen, there are no genuine issues of material fact;
2. Plaintiffs' Complaint sufficiently gave Defendants notice that declaratory judgment was sought in this matter;
3. The Plaintiffs are entitled to declaratory judgment as a matter of law: Plaintiffs have standing to bring this action under the Uniform Declaratory Judgments Act, RCW Ch. 7.24. This case presents a justiciable controversy, and in addition, important public interests support this Court's consideration of Plaintiffs' claims, particularly as there is a likelihood that the underlying conduct could recur;
4. Defendants as local law enforcement officers, under the facts of this case, do not have the authority to enforce federal immigration law nor prolong a detention to question individuals about their immigration status, citizenship status and/or country of origin, even if the officers have a reasonable suspicion or probable cause to seize and/or detain individuals for violations of law that the officers are authorized to enforce and, having determined not to arrest the plaintiffs, they prolonged the detention solely to question Plaintiffs about their immigration status.; and
5. Defendants violated Plaintiffs' rights conferred by the Washington State Constitution, Article I, Section 7, when on February 2, 2010 they prolonged the detention to question the Plaintiffs about their immigration status, citizenship status and/or country of origin.

III. ORDER

Therefore, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

1. Defendants' CR 56 Motion for Entry of Final Judgment is hereby DENIED;
2. Plaintiffs' Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment is hereby GRANTED; and

1 3. The Court hereby DECLARES that Article 1, § 7 of the Washington State Constitution
2 forbids local enforcement officers from prolonging a detention to investigate or engage in
3 questioning about an individual's immigration status, citizenship status and/or national 4 origin.
